OUR HERITAGE

FOUNDED IN 1867

William Inglis and Son Pty Ltd is Australia's largest and oldest bloodstock auctioneer. The business was founded by William Inglis in 1867, and is still owned by the Inglis family. William Inglis and Son was acknowledged as a prominent auction firm, not just in bloodstock, most notable for its "world famous Sydney Yearling Sales", held at its Newmarket facility at Randwick. In 2015 William Inglis and Son Pty Ltd sold its main premises at Randwick. Inglis moved their operations to a larger site at Warwick Farm in 2018 and opened The William Inglis Hotel & Riverside Stables Precinct.

The William Inglis Hotel reflects this very history throughout the hotel incorporating historical horse names reflected at the entry of all accommodation rooms, The Chiltern roof top pool, The Newmarket Restaurant and bar. 1867 Lounge Bar significantly reflects the year of when William Inglis was founded. It has been architecturally designed to tell the Inglis story.

THE NEWMARKET ROOM RESTAURANT

OUR PHILOSOPHY

Welcome to The Newmarket Room Restaurant & Bar. Featuring a paddock to plate food philosophy providing simplistic, comforting and authentic flavours. Our Executive Chef and his skilled team deliver a menu that reflects a modern Australian twist. A menu to be shared with family and friends.

NOTE FROM OUR EXECUTIVE CHEF

Specialising in recipe development for fine dining. The Newmarket Room strives on collaborative creation, innovative dishes and Australian native ingredients coming together with flavours that bounce off the plate.
