Elephant Information :

Thailand's current population of trained elephants is about 2,700. After an abrupt decline 100,000 ropes in 1850, and about 95 % of Thai elephants are in private ownership, have only 80 elephants are conservation of Thai government. They are a few in zoos and elephants of the King. In 1989 the number of wild elephants in Thailand are difficult to count because of their dense, forest environment but experts estimate it's around 2,000 - 3,000 ropes. Now, more than half of Thai elephants work in tourism. Thailand has a long history with elephants it's mean elephants were used for transportation, war and reigning monarchs. In more recent history elephants were employed in the timber industry also. Thai government try to help and protect the remaining elephants habitat and hope that it will continually to protect wild elephants in Thailand.
