TOGETHER FOR SUSTAINABILITY

To start a conversation on sustainability with our customers and to tackle carbon emissions from food, we have added the carbon footprint of all the dishes on our menus. We are working with Klimato to implement scientifically proven, data-backed carbon labels that will help our guests understand the climate impact of their chosen dishes.

Very low

In line with the Paris Agreement goal to limit temperature increase to well below 2°C above pre-industrial levels.

Low

In line with the targets set for 2030. This puts us on a good path for 2050. Aligned with the Cool Food, a WRI initiative.

Medium

Associated with a temperature increase of 2.5°C above pre-industrial levels.

High

Associated with a temperature increase of 3°C, above pre-industrial levels.

Very high

Associated with a temperature increase higher than 3°C above pre-industrial levels.

The Klimato carbon labels indicate the carbon footprint of a dish. The thresholds are based on targets set forth by the Paris Agreement. Klimato's tool was created by scientists and it uses the most up to date climate data from lifecycle assessments to calculate the carbon footprint of each meal. The carbon footprint of a meal is the total amount of greenhouse gas emissions (CO₂e) that stem from the ingredients through each production stage.

Klimato

Klimato is a sustainability partner for any business with a F&B offering to calculate, report and reduce the carbon emissions from food and beverage. So far the solution is used by more than 500 companies in more than 15 markets. During only 1 year, over 10 million meals were reported with Klimato and the average emission reduction per meal was 23%.
