

3 NAGAS

MGALLERY LUANG PRABANG

Story of the Houses

Like all great houses, The 3 Nagas has its own story to tell, shaped by the collective experiences and memories of its past residents. I hope that you enjoy creating your own memories while you are here those perfect, timeless, cultural experiences and moments that will hopefully last a lifetime!

We have two houses: the Lamache House at the side of the Mekong river, where mango trees are (outdoor seating) and the Khamboua House at side of the Khan River.

The Mansion, originally known as Khamboua House, was first owned by Chao Phagna Muong Chanh, then by the Villa Achan Thong Dy family, and later by the Khamboua family. Khamboua House is a jewel of traditional Lao architecture, featuring a unique garden along the Nam Khan River, where one can catch a glimpse of the subtle and serene Lao lifestyle. Built in 1903 by one of the counselors to King Sisavangvong, this mansion showcases traditional Lao architectural elements, including a single-pitch roof, a veranda, and a perpendicular kitchen.

The Lamache House, built in 1898, consists of seven rooms. Originally constructed for the unofficial deliberations of the Royal Court, it was later transformed into an ice cream shop by the grandchildren of Mr. Lamache, the original owner. Their shop quickly gained popularity in Luang Prabang and was eventually appointed as the official ice cream supplier to the Royal Court. During the restoration, three bottles containing essence extracts used to flavor the ice cream were discovered.

Legendary Cocktail

La Mache Zest

Inspired by the La Mache building's history as a Royal Family ice cream parlor, our legendary cocktail features locally sourced Nam Bak oranges and brown rum from Naxone village.

With Cointreau, wild honey, and homemade Orange Honey Sorbet, it's garnished with a smoked, dehydrated orange.

Create your #MMoment as you savor the story.
