Monk Blessing Ceremony

Buddhist monks are invited to attend the ceremony to bless the bride and groom and enable them to make merit which is particularly important on this very special occasion to ensure a lifetime of love in the marriage.

“Rod-Nam-Sang” or Water Blessing Ceremony

“Rod Nam” (pouring water) signifies cleansing and transferring of luck, and “Sang” (conch shell) symbolizes a source of good.

“Rod Nam Sang” or Water Blessing Ceremony brings together the bride and groom for guests to bestow the blessings by pouring water from the conch shell over the couple’s hands and wish them happiness and prosperity.
